THE FUTURE OF BCPS DIGITAL COMMUNICATIONS

Department WCMs

THE PROGRESSION

Four eras. One straight line.

AOL

1990s

2000s

2010s

Now

1990S: WEB & EMAIL

Where it all started

1991

Tim Berners-Lee puts the first website live.

1993

Mosaic, the first browser regular people could actually use.

1996

Hotmail brings free webmail to the masses.

1998

Google is founded, and the web becomes searchable.

2000S: SOCIAL MEDIA

The platforms show up

2004

Facebook launches.

2005

YouTube launches.

2006

Twitter launches, and Facebook opens beyond college campuses.

2007

iPhone launches, exclusive to AT&T.

2010S: SMARTPHONE EMERGENCE

The phone becomes the primary screen

2010

Samsung Galaxy S launches, giving Android its first true flagship.

2011

Verizon finally gets the iPhone, ending AT&T's exclusivity, and Android overtakes iOS in global market share.

2012

Mobile overtakes desktop for social media use.

2020S: AI

The new chapter

2020

GPT-3, the first big leap in general-purpose AI language models.

2022

ChatGPT launches. AI chat goes mainstream overnight.

2023

Copilot built into Microsoft 365, what BCPS has adopted.

2024–25

Claude and the broader AI field mature alongside it.

“How do you use this without it becoming one more thing on your plate?”

That brings us to right now.

So what does that mean for BCPS specifically?

BCPS isn't just adopting AI. We're building with it.

- browardschools.ai (Broward Powered by AI), built in-house, using AI itself to help build it
- A sign of what's coming for department and school sites too
- We're testing the future of BCPS websites in real time, not waiting on a vendor to hand it to us

We'll share more about what we're building for your departments later in this Kickoff.

Marketing & Branding for Department Websites

Marketing & Strategic Communications Team

Farrah Wilson, Director

Sean Russell, District Webmaster

Felicia Hicks, Webmaster I

What's Your Favorite Sport's Team?

The Problem Isn't AI. It's Ungoverned AI.

Staff across schools and departments already use AI for flyers, documents, and posts. Banning it just drives it underground.

The real issue: generic AI tools have never seen the BCPS standards or ADA rules, so they default to whatever looks good to a general model.

GUIDING PRINCIPLE

Make the on-brand, ADA-compliant path the easiest path — so the shortcut and the correct answer become the same thing.

What goes wrong with ungoverned AI output

- ✗ Off-palette colors that aren't BCPS Blue, Green, or Orange
- ✗ Script or decorative fonts instead of approved fonts
- ✗ Low-contrast text that fails WCAG 2.1 AA (4.5:1)
- ✗ Missing, altered, or outdated BCPS logo
- ✗ No School Board list or non-discrimination statement
- ✗ Inaccessible files — no headings, alt text, or reading order

Example & Non-Example: Logo Usage

Replace the placeholders with real district samples during rollout.

✓ ON BRAND · DO

Official primary logo, prominent, with 0.25" clear space on white — unaltered proportions, colors, and wording.

✗ OFF BRAND · DON'T

AI-generated or altered mark: stretched, recolored, drop-shadowed, crowded, or a school/program logo used in its place.

Lives inside a Composer content block, set per image.

Open Composer's Accessibility Checker (toolbar icon) first - it flags every image missing alt text on the page in one pass and can auto-generate a suggested description for you to review.

Or fix it directly: click the image in Composer to open its Image Properties panel.

Fill in the Alt Text field with a short, specific description (skip "image of" or "picture of").

If the image is purely decorative (a divider, a background flourish), check the "Decorative image" option instead of leaving Alt Text blank or guessing at a description.

Department WCMs

THE ROLLOUT

Division by Division

The audit runs across a three-month window, working through departments division by division.

BEFORE WE MEET

Get Aligned First

We're encouraging every department to have their own internal conversation about their web presence before we sit down, so everyone's on the same page walking in.

THE OUTCOME

Setting Your Web Strategy for the Year

This meeting is where your department's web strategy for the school year actually gets set, together, in the room.

LOGISTICS, HANDLED

No WCM? Not Sure What's Next? Covered.

Whatever the gap, staffing, know-how, next steps, we work it out together as part of this engagement.

You'll walk out confident.

Managing your website, on your terms, with a real plan behind it.
